Dr. Joseph Torrey and his Record Book of Marriages

BY WILLIAM DAVIS MILLER.

The first authenticated record regarding the life of Joseph Torrey of Tower Hill in South Kingstown, doctor of divinity and of medicine, is that of his marriage in the year 1730. Information concerning him prior to that date is difficult to obtain and is largely a matter of speculation. There was, however, born in the Town of Weymouth, in the then County of Suffolk, in Massachusetts, on October 19, 1707,<sup>1</sup> a Joseph Torrey, son of Joseph and Elizabeth (Symmes) Torrey of that town.

It has been generally accepted that this Joseph Torrey recorded in the Weymouth Records was the Dr. Joseph Torrey later of Tower Hill, and there are several facts that would reasonably permit it to be assumed as correct. Dr. Torrey's grave stone is inscribed "died the 25th Nov<sup>r</sup> 1791 in the 85th year of his age and the 61st of his Ministry."<sup>2</sup> He would, therefore, have been born in either the years 1706 or 1707, but probably the latter, as after October 19, 1791, he would indeed be in his eighty-fifth year. There have also been persistent rumors, usually stated as facts, that Dr. Torrey was a graduate of Harvard College in 1728, at the age of twenty-one.<sup>3</sup> This is substantiated by the will of Joseph Torrey of Weymouth, mentioned in the preceding paragraph, which states; "to my son Joseph his

Learning at the College til he takes his first Degree, That is to say one hundred and fifteen Pounds . . . . twenty-five Pounds per Annum the three first years and thirty-five Pounds ye fourth year of his being at College."<sup>4</sup>

Dr. Torrey's great grandfather has been stated to have been William Torrey, who was born in England about 1608. He was married three times; first to Agnes Combe (died 1629/30) at Combe St. Nicholas, Somersetshire, England, secondly to Jane Haviland (died 1639) and thirdly to Elizabeth Fry. He came to America about 1640 and was settled in Weymouth in 1648, where he died in 1690. His second son by his second wife was William, junior, (1638-1717/8), who was born in England, and probably came to America with his father. He married Deborah Greene (1649-1728/9) and their son Joseph was presumably the father of Dr. Torrey.

In 1730, as has been stated, and two years after his presumed graduation from Harvard, Torrey was settled in South Kingstown employed upon his profession of medicine. On October fifteenth of the same year he married<sup>6</sup> Elizabeth Willson,<sup>7</sup>

<sup>4</sup>Suffolk Probate Records, Book XIII, p. 13. Dated April 15, 1723 and probated May 8, 1723. The testator was born about 1678 and died April 1723. The date given in the records is April 22 and on his grave stone April 24. Weymouth Vital Records, Vol. II, p. 353. In the Suffolk Probate Records, Book XXIV, p. 248, (1725), Joseph Torrey "a minor, son of Joseph Torrey late of Weymouth requests that his uncle, John Torrey (sic), be appointed guardian."

<sup>5</sup>William Torrey, senior, is mentioned as the great grandfather of Dr. Torrey by Franklin Bowditch Dexter, editor of the Literary Diary of Ezra Stiles, 3 vols., Scribners, N. Y., 1901 (see note Vol. III, p. 330). The Diary, as edited by Dexter, has been found to differ to a considerable extent from the original manuscript in the Yale University Library. This has been explained by the fact that Dexter changed the text and added interpolations from data acquired from other manuscripts of Stiles. These changes are not noted and can only be checked by comparison with the holograph diary. Also see the "Torrey Families and their Children in America," Frederic C. Torrey, Lakelhurst, N. J., 1924, of which volume one alone has been published to date. This reference also states that Dr. Torrey was engaged as a school teacher in Weymouth in May, 1730, at the salary of thirty pounds per annum. It would seem that he held this post but a short time in view of his marriage in Kingstown five months later and as he is supposed to have settled there about that time.

daughter of Captain Jeremiah Willson and his first wife Ann (Manoxon).<sup>8</sup> Dr. MacSparran, soon to be Torrey's legal opponent in the Ministry land dispute, performed the ceremony. There were seven children born of this union, one of whom, Oliver, died at early age.<sup>9</sup>

On December 4, 1731 "four gentlemen of Kingstown" addressed the authorities of the Congregational Church, in Boston, with the request that Dr. Torrey be settled among them to preach, there having been no one in that locality since the departure of Samuel Niles in 1710.<sup>10</sup> This was granted, and in April of the following year the authorities were again petitioned, this time with the request that Torrey be ordained.

As a result, a church was formed and on May 17, 1732, Torrey was ordained,<sup>11</sup> the first Congregational minister by ordination in South Kingstown, by the Rev. Samuel Niles, Rev. John Webb, Rev. Thomas Prince and the Rev. James Searing.

Within a short period after his ordination Dr. Torrey was involved in litigation, for and in behalf of his Church, for the possession of the tract of land set aside by the original Pettaquamscutt Purchasers, in 1668, and designated by them, with intentional ambiguity as "For the Ministry."<sup>12</sup> Dr. Mac-

<sup>9</sup>The children were: Elizabeth, born July 19, 1731, married Edward Adams of Killingly, Conn.; Joseph, born February 4, 1732/3, married December, 1757, Hannah Fisk, died February 19, 1804 (See notice in Providence Gazette, March 31, 1804), lived in Killingly; Oliver, born February 14, 1734/5, died young; Ann, born May 13, 1737, married Thomas Hawkins, May 25, 1758; Samuel Holden, born 1738, married Ann Gould, died 1786; Mary, married Wm. W. Pollock of South Kingstown; and Lucy, married an Osgood of Boston.

<sup>10</sup>There had been four Congregational preachers settled in South Kingstown prior to Dr. Torrey: Woodward, Danforth, Flynt and Niles. (Early History of Narragansett, E. R. Potter, p. 278.)

<sup>12</sup>The Purchasers, being members of both the Church of England and of the Congregational Church, and fearing the result of definite assignment of the land to either Church, chose this means of compromise. (Early History of Narragansett, pp. 123-130, and History of the Narragansett Church, Vol. I, pp. 76-83.) The land contained about 300 acres and was situated to the east of, and near to Wordens Pond in South

Sparren<sup>13</sup> claimed this land for the Church of England and for twenty years, from 1732 until 1752, when Dr. Torrey emerged victorious, the legal conflict was waged by the representatives of the two churches.

Dr. Torrey's first wife died in 1746 and on May 24, 1750, he married, at Stoneham, Mass., Elizabeth Fisk, the daughter of the Rev. John Fisk of Killingly, Connecticut,<sup>14</sup> who was the first ordained pastor of the Congregational Church in Putnam. Elizabeth Fisk would appear to have been the sister of Hannah, who later married Joseph Torrey, junior. By his second wife, Dr. Torrey had eight children,<sup>15</sup> two of whom died in infancy and whose names are unknown.

Dr. Torrey's meeting house stood on an acre of land, given by Judge Samuel Sewell and his wife Hannah in 1707, which was situated on the easterly side of the Post Road on Tower Hill and south of the road which leads to the Pettaquamscut, or Narrow, River. Torrey lived on the south side of the road leading westward from the Post Road, a short distance to the south of the Church lot.<sup>16</sup> Urdike says that "The Church gathered by Dr. Torrey was never large, but yet was respectable in numbers dwindling, however, in the latter part of his life."<sup>17</sup>

Kingstown. The tract appears on several plats of the Purchase, one of which has been published in the first volume of Rhode Island Land Evidences, R. I. Historical Society, Providence, 1921. This land was eventually sold and the proceeds now form a fund in the treasury of the Church in Kingstown.

<sup>13</sup>Dr. James MacSparran was a minister of the Church of England and resident in South Kingstown. An excellent account of his life appears as an Introduction to his "Diary", edited by the Rev. Daniel Goodwin, Boston, 1899.

<sup>14</sup>Elizabeth Fisk was born about 1721 and died July 16, 1780. (The Torrey Families and their Children in America, Vol. I, p. 87). Stiles' Diary, Vol. I, p. 165 and note. Dr. Fisk is elsewhere mentioned as having large estates in Killingly. Dr. Torrey owned a house and fifty acres in that Town at the time of his death (Joseph Torrey's will). Stiles states that Dr. Fisk died May 14, 1773 "aet 90 & supra, emeritus."

<sup>16</sup>In his will (South Kingstown Probate Records, Book VI, pp. 246 7-8), Dr. Torrey gives the bounds of "my Mansion House & Land."

Ezra Stiles writes in his diary that at the age of 81 years, Dr. Torrey was unable to preach—"No Meet<sup>g</sup> held at his meet<sup>g</sup> house . . . ." <sup>18</sup>

Dr. Torrey died November 25, 1791<sup>19</sup> in his eighty-fifth year and after over sixty-one years service to the community as minister to its physical<sup>20</sup> and spiritual well being. His grave, with the graves of his wives on either side, lies in the small overgrown bit of ground where many of his parishioners are buried and where his meeting house stood.

There was recently found among the papers collected by the late Hon. Elisha R. Potter of Kingston, a small "home made" copy book which, upon examination, proved to be the records of the "names etc. of the persons joyned together in Marriage by Joseph Torrey." The records, covering a period of forty-seven years, 1736-1783, are in the Doctor's own hand, which loses its strength, but not its clarity, as the pages are filled. These records are published here, for what is believed to be the first time, and in the hope that they will be of genealogical value and interest.

<sup>20</sup>It is interesting to note that Dr. Torrey was voted Two Pounds by the Assembly in 1751 (Act and Resolves, November, 1751) for services rendered in connection with the case of the murderer Thomas Carter. This was probably for medical attention, as Dr. MacSparran acted with zealous ability as Carter's spiritual "advisor." (History of the Narragansett Church and also MacSparran's Diary, p. XXVI.)
